

Foreword

This issue contains the lectures presented at the International Seminar on Microprocessors and their Applications, held at the Department of Measurement and Instrument Engineering, 15–18 October, 1986. Eight colleagues from different universities, as from Karlsruhe, Delft, München, Prague, Stockholm attended the seminar. The delivered 10 lectures gave good survey of selected fields of microprocessor applications. The lectures were followed by intensive discussions, which formed an inherent part of the whole meeting. I think that we all profited from and enjoyed the seminar very much. We look forward to the next one.

Prof. Dr. László Schnell
Head of the Department of Measurement
and Instrument Engineering